BOARD OF TRUSTEES MEET IN REGULAR WEEKLY SESSION

FIRST MEETING IN NEW CITY HALL COUNCIL CHAMBERS—MEETING NIGHT TO BE CHANGED TO TUESDAY

The Board of Trustees met in adjourned session in the council chambers of the new city hall. A large number of citizens attended the meeting in order that the Trustees might not receive all the glory of meeting in our own municipal building. All members were present at their new desks and all looked proud. After the reading of minutes of previous meeting the regular order of business was taken up.

A communication from the Greenwood Advertising Company, manufacturers of electric signs, to the effect that an electric sign would be of benefit to Tropico. The latter was ordered placed on file. It was stated that the old lights on Brand boulevard were still in operation. The committee on public works was instructed to look up some new locations for the twenty-one lights.

The city attorney read an answer to a request that the Pacific Electric Railway Company open a crossing at Gardena avenue. The company informed the Board that they would put in the necessary work provided the city made application to the Railway Commission and paid the costs. The city attorney was instructed to take the matter up with the proper authorities.

In the matter of improving Glendale avenue, the city attorney stated that without doubt the matter would be adjusted satisfactorily in a short time.

The city engineer offered an ordinance establishing the grade on the Stepper tract. He also informed the Board that the street work on Brand boulevard was finished and the assessment rolls made out. It was moved that the report be accepted.

The city clerk informed the Board that in going over the tax list of 1911-1912 that there were delinquencies for which he could find no credits, and asked the Board for instructions. He was instructed to go further into the matter and report.

Mr. Burns, of the Pacific Light & Power Company, appeared and stated that the company would take out old lights on Brand boulevard upon the request of the Board.

The city attorney was instructed to prepare an ordinance changing the grade on East Cypress street. The Board of Public Works reported that Mrs. Larson would give the city a deed for property necessary to open Adams street.

Upon motion Trustee Webster was appointed to look after the matter of preparing a suitable float to represent Tropico at the Pasadena festival on New Year's day.

Mrs. Harris asked that some work be done at once on Moore avenue.

City Marshal Smith asked for permission to purchase bulbs for city lighting poles. Some was granted.

The street superintendent was instructed to dig out the culverts sufficient to let water run off Brand boulevard.

Fire Chief Gould asked for rope for hanging hose in tower, two beds and rope for bell. He was instructed to make the necessary purchases.

The city marshal was instructed to purchase paint for painting the fire hydrants.

Several demands were offered and referred to the finance committee.

An ordinance declaring the intention of the Board to open Acacia avenue was read for the third time.

Our Windows Always Bright And Clean

By MOSS.

THE value of a piece of real estate is measured by the number of people who pass it daily. The corner of Main and First streets, Alhambra, is not as valuable as the corner of Broadway and Wall street, New York city.

The value of a show window is measured by the number of people who stop in front of it daily. This paper is a HUGE SHOW WINDOW.

Thousands stop in front of it and look in. Are YOUR goods displayed therein for the observation of these thousands? Do you think it pays for them not to see your goods?

Great department stores in New York, Chicago and such cities pay big salaries to expert window dressers. Thousands daily troop in front of their windows, attracted by the offerings so attractively displayed. These same stores spend fortunes for page after page of window display dressing in the papers. Would they do either unless it was good business?

Call up our advertising department RIGHT NOW for TIPS ON DISPLAY ADVERTISING. Let us dress up a window for you in this paper.

NOVEMBER 27TH NAMED AS PLANTING DAY IN LOS ANGELES CO.

MOVEMENT STARTED TO HAVE ENTIRE COUNTY TAKE PART IN GENERAL PLAN FOR 1915 GARDENS

In Los Angeles, November 27 has been named as a special day for everyone to plant gardens for 1915, when the Southland will be the mecca for hordes of sightseers from all parts of the country.

The Beautifying Los Angeles City Committee of the 1915 general committee on beautifying and entertaining conceived the idea and it has met with general favor.

It has been suggested and warmly urged that all municipalities in the county join with Los Angeles in having a general planting. The date of November 27 was selected because the school children will have a holiday on that date and will be able to work in both home and school gardens.

Lists of the best flowers to plant the last of November and directions for their care will be announced later.

WHICH WAS THE BEST PICTURE AT THE LONDON SALON

A LONDON MAGAZINE ASKED HONORARY SECRETARY FOR ANSWER WHICH WAS AS FOLLOWS

In reply to our inquiry, Mr. Bertram Park writes: "Which is the best picture in the salon? That is a truly difficult question to answer, but I can tell you which I think is the best group of pictures by the same artist. They are Nos. 98, 107, 153, 169 and 172, by Edward H. Weston, of California.

"Mr. Weston is evidently a man of original ideas, sound technique, a refined artistic perception and sense for decoration. I cannot remember having ever seen any of his work before, and it is a very great pleasure to welcome a newcomer whose pictures show such a distinctive personality. No. 107, 'Toxophilus, a Decorative Study,' is truly decorative, an extremely interesting study of a nude archer. There is very little modelling in the tones, which give one almost the impression of silhouette. No. 98, 'Summer Sunshine,' is a more elaborate arrangement with full modelling, but nevertheless a very narrow range of tones—an admirably posed full-length figure of a laughing girl in a rather dim light of diffused sunshine. No. 153 is an essay of quite a different character—'Child Study in Grey.' A still narrower range of tones is used in delicate grey of a style which might be described as 'Caddy-esque,' a description which will be readily understood. The expression on the child's face is delightfully natural, fresh and sparkling—in its own way quite a masterpiece of portraiture.

No. 169, 'Carlotta,' another portrait, is in a lower key. The model, as in the last mentioned, is lit from top and from the rear, so that her face is mostly in shadow with a halo of light illuminating her profile. There is a charming softness about the work, a softness which is so different from fuzziness, and an atmosphere of refinement and mystery which is exceedingly attractive. In the last few years at the Salon we have had perhaps too many Austrian, Hungarian and German prints, amongst the chief characteristics of which are a forceful, almost brutal, strength, and rich decisive tone values, so that the delicate elusiveness of the pictures I have mentioned appealed at once as something which gave a fresh outlook and a welcome change."

AUTOMOBILE THEIVES ARE APPREHENDED

THREE BOYS TAKE DR. LUCAS' AUTO FOR A JOY RIDE

Last Wednesday morning Dr. Lucas reported to the police that his auto had been taken during the night. Deputy Constable Gould went to work and located the machine marooned in the fields below the S. P. tracks. Saturday night he formerly took into custody three boys and charged them with the theft. The boys, Russell Paine, Earnest Murphy and Reginald Morrison, were arraigned before Judge Melrose and pleaded guilty to the charge. The boys stated that Morrison had invited them to take a joy ride with him. Morrison was bound over to the juvenile court, while Paine and Murphy were given time to circulate a petition for probation. Juvenile charges have become too frequent of late, and hereafter the culprits will be dealt with more severely. It has been a custom of this paper to keep all such cases out of its columns, but hereafter every boy who is brought before the court is going to get a write-up.

AN OVERSIGHT

In the last issue an oversight was made in the matter of thanking those who had so graciously helped with their services in our recent carnival. Several of those whose services were especially appreciated and who failed to receive notice of thanks are:

TROPICO DOGS MAKE A SHOWING AT LOS ANGELES SHOW

I. H. OLIVER, CHAS. T. LARABEE, W. C. ANDERSON AND MISS GENE ALLEN ARE WINNERS WITH THEIR DOGS

Saturday evening the show given by the Ladies' Kennel Association of Southern California closed after three days of yelling dogs and crowding spectators. The elite of societydom was there. The ladies with the long nettes looked down on the winners. The very ordinary folks looked down on the also rans.

The show was a success from a financial standpoint as well as from the entry list. Over 350 dogs were entered, making it a four point show, each winner moving four points toward championship.

All Tropico entries met with more or less success.

Mr. Irving H. Oliver of 647 Acacia street won with Walnut Judy tagging first in the novice class, second in the limit class, and first in the Pacific Coast breed class. Walnut Judy also proved itself an alreade of pronounced merit, winning the reserve winner ribbon and losing only to His Highness, a dog that later took winners for being the best dog of all breeds in the show.

Mr. Charles T. Larabee of 541 Gardena avenue won third with his collie puppy, Dan, a young dog that has never been exhibited before. Mr. Larabee has some assurance that Dan will develop into a dog that will do well after it has a few more months over its head.

W. C. Anderson of "Tango Dog" fame won second place with his red cocker, Louella Second, in the open class. Also third place with Kanakah Girl in the limit class. Kanakah Girl is the dog that won three points toward championship at the last Venice show. Mr. Anderson won a trophy for having one of the best decorated benches at the show. The decorations consisted of marsh grass and cat tails gathered from the Los Angeles river. The design was made up by Mr. S. Tyler, a landscape architect of Pasadena. The decorations were very appropriate for the small type of hunting dogs.

Miss Jean Allen took second prize with Lady Flirt in the children's variety class, and third with the same dog in the novice class.

TROPICO PHARMACY CHANGES HANDS

Last week the Tropico Pharmacy, for several years conducted by C. G. Baker, was taken over by Edwin Virden of Burbank. Mr. Baker has made many friends in Tropico, who are wishing him well in any other undertaking that he sees fit to embark in. He will in all probability still make Tropico his headquarters. Mr. Virden comes well recommended from his former home and we welcome him.

CIRCUS HANDBILLS ANNOUNCE COMING OF AGGREGATION

VISITORS TO BARNES CIRCUS MAY WITNESS FEEDING OF HUNDRED FEROCIOUS BEASTS

The Barnes big 3-ring wild animal circus offers one of the best opportunities for the study of natural history obtainable. A year's study of a dozen books would not give one the knowledge of wild animals that may be secured by paying a visit to the big menagerie of this show.

You'll be entertained if you see this Barnes Circus. There's no doubt about it. Not only will you be entertained, but you will have the chance to witness a spectacle unobtainable in any other manner—the feeding of hundreds of ferocious wild animals. It is a sight you will not forget. After each afternoon's performance the meat-eating animals are given their daily rations. During this period one can see the lions, tigers, leopards, pumas, jaguars and other members of the giant cat tribe in uproarious activity. Their ferocity and great strength is openly shown. To witness their feeding gives one a better idea what it means to be a trainer of jungle bred beasts.

The 600 animals with the show are all actors. Every one of them have a stunt to do—they earn their keep. The show's program is almost entirely given by them. Sixty-five big numbers are encompassed in this program. These animal actors take one over the entire gamut of human emotions. There are no "cry spots" on the program, however, but every moment is one of keenest interest, delight, instruction, amusement or thrilling anxiety.

Sixty lions, tigers, leopards, pumas and jaguars; fifty grizzly, Siberian, cinnamon, black and polar bears; fifty dogs, fifty monkeys, thirty Rocky Mountain goats, herds of elephants, camels, zebras, and zulus; troops of seals, and sea lions, kangaroos and hyenas are actors with this circus.

The two most prominent and unrivaled features with the show are the Barnes Challenge, world premium horses and ponies—550 in number—and the great group of 24 full-grown, jungle-bred African lions shown in one act. This lion act is the greatest wild animal spectacle ever successfully presented to the public.

Patrons to the Barnes shows are provided with plenty of clean, wholesome comedy, provoked by a dozen clever clowns and fifty fun-making elephants, monkeys, ponies, dogs, bears and the mules—"Danger," "Dynamite" and "Mileaminit."

A four-band, mile-long parade is presented to the public at 10:30. Performances are given at 2 and 8 P. M. The date for Glendale is Friday, November 20.

TROPICO PARENT TEACHERS ASSN.

Last Friday afternoon the Tropico Parent-Teachers Association met for a social time in the assembly room of the Central Grammar school. A delightful program was presented and an enjoyable time had by all present. Miss Gardner, formerly connected with the Los Angeles prosecuting attorney, was present and delivered a talk on "Business Training for Boys as Well as Girls." She urged upon the parents and teachers the necessity of teaching their children the rudiments of law and the ways of the world. She discoursed at some length upon her experiences with especially women who had come to her with tales of over confidence in the matter of allowing their meager incomes to be invested by unscrupulous men, while in the prosecutor's office, and showed where much of this could be eliminated by instruction in the schools.

Mrs. A. J. Van Wie, from the Cooper School of Music, sang two child songs by Carrie Jacobs Bond that were also highly appreciated.

2 Plus 2=3 No? Well, Read

By MOSS.

SOPHISTRY wasn't wiped off the map of reasoning over 2,000 years ago, although it certainly deserved to be.

The Sophists in ancient Greece, you remember, taught a false philosophy of life and things, their premises being based on fallacy. They tried to make two plus two equal three.

The Sophists are not all dead. A few thrive today. They argue of newspaper advertising: "Oh, I never buy anything widely advertised or patronize merchants who make a splash in the newspapers. Their articles are either inferior or more costly because they have to include the cost of advertising."

BOSH! As a matter of fact, advertising enables you to buy BETTER things at CHEAPER prices. Through advertising the sales are INCREASED ten, twenty, fifty fold. The manufacturer or merchant is thus able to sell BETTER and CHEAPER goods and still pay for his advertising.

This recognized BUSINESS FACT is backed up by the experience of successful business men of this community and by wise home providers who closely watch the ads. in this paper.

VALLEY PUBLICITY COMPANY ARE WORKING IN TROPICO

A NEW CITY AND BUSINESS DIRECTORY FOR GLENDALE, TROPICO AND CASA VERDUGO

A new city and business directory for 1915 is one of the things necessary to aid the three cities of Glendale, Tropico and Casa Verdugo to take advantage of all the good things that are coming this way in the big Panama Exposition year.

The present directory is a year and a half old and with our large increase in population and many new business houses and changes in both, it is distinctly out of date.

Realizing this fact, the Valley Publicity Bureau has commenced work on a new directory to be issued January 1, 1915. Mr. F. Wilkenson, manager of the bureau, is now working on the business section, after which the city enumeration will be taken up. He asks the aid of every booster of the three cities in making the coming issue the most complete and valuable edition yet published.—(Advertisement.)

YEGGMEN APPREHENDED

Saturday evening Deputy Marshall Sam Rich was detailed to pick up two suspicious looking characters who had been loitering about the city for several days. The two men who gave the names of Kenneth C. Hayes and W. H. Wallace were taken to the city lockup and searched. Rich found on Hayes a piece of gas pipe covered with leather besides other articles used by hold-ups. A search of Wallace failed to reveal any such articles. The two men were formerly charged with vagrancy before Judge Melrose on Monday. Hayes was given six months in the county jail, while Wallace was turned loose with a notice to leave town.

Tropico seems to be getting her share of undesirables lately, and every deputy has been cautioned to be on the look out.

EXCERPT FROM CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE LAST FRIDAY

By Prof. Hermann S. Hering, C.S.B.

A LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ENTITLED "CHRISTIAN SCIENCE HEALING SPIRITUAL AND SCIENTIFIC"

A lecture on Christian Science entitled "Christian Science Healing Spiritual and Scientific" was given in the Glendale High School auditorium last Friday evening by Prof. Herman S. Hering, C.S.B., of Concord, New Hampshire, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass.

Mr. Frederick Baker, a well known attorney in this community introduced the lecturer who said in part:

"There is no question of such general interest to mankind as the one of healing. The universal demand and endeavor of humanity is for a larger measure of health and happiness than is today attained, and there is manifestly great need of some better means of healing than that in general use.

Christ Jesus proved existence to be wholly mental when he walked on the water, stilled the tempest and overcame other material conditions.

"The universe created and constantly sustained by God must be like Him for like produces like, therefore the real universe is not finite or dimensional but infinite, not destructible but indestructible, not material but spiritual.

"Perfect God, perfect man, perfect being, is the basis of all Christian Science teaching, analysis, and practice. This is the standard by which Christian Science measures and tests all human phenomena and experiences in order to determine their true value.

"Disease, sin, death, all discords, are therefore to be classed as errors of mortal consciousness, as mesmeric, illusory mental conditions. On this basis they can be corrected with Truth, while they cannot be corrected so long as they are classed as either physical or mental realities. Even according to psychology and philosophy they are but objectified sense impressions.

"As disease is an untrue experience of the human mind, Truth must be brought to bear upon consciousness in order that the wrong belief and its cause may be destroyed. When we think rightly of any truth, this truth is present with us, just as when we think rightly of the multiplication table the principle of mathematics is with us in thought or we could not think mathematically. Likewise when we think rightly of divine Truth, Life, Love—God, which Christian Science makes possible today, Truth is present with us in consciousness, God with us. St. Paul wrote to the Ephesians (4:6) of the one God who is 'in you all,' omnipresent. He has but to be known, and as by knowing Truth we reflect Truth, so by knowing God we reflect Him, and it is by this right knowing of God that divine Truth and Love are reflected in consciousness and brought to bear upon our problems.

"This definitely distinguishes Christian Science from hypnotism, magnetism or mental suggestion of any form. 'My acquaintance with Mrs. Eddy for many years and my association with her on many occasions enables me to speak of her exalted Christian character.

"Fidelity to her highest concept of right, consecration to the work divinely demanded of her, spiritual wisdom in leading and directing the Christian Science movement, unfeigned love for God, for His Christ and for all mankind; these were dominant traits of character in that great yet gentle woman who discovered and established Christian Science. The modern wise men should say of her as was said of old:

OUR HUMAN IMPORTS

By William C. Anderson

Here is something about our aliens—what they bring with them and what they do after they get here.

China, Japan, and Indian sent over to us about sixty thousand of their peoples during 1912 and 1913. Turkey in Asia leads with about 36,000. China and Japan, the countries in which we are most interested, sent principally to California and the Pacific Coast on an average of ten thousand, of which only two thousand are Chinese.

The aliens of these two countries are mostly laborers. They are exceedingly adept in tilling the soil. In digging and hoeing and planting seed no pale man will ever compete with them. They are close to nature, and to use the soil is one of their natural resources. To make the soil pay, they till into the farthest corners of the fields. They toil incessantly from the breaking of the sun over the hill-tops 'till the dim twilight fall. Twelve to sixteen hours is their day. They are the most industrious workers on earth and they are not hampered by labor organizations or combined capital. The X. & X. does not regulate their investments; the walking delegate does not regulate their hours; the retail associations do not regulate their prices. They cannot understand those things because they are living in a free country and have never read the "Constitution."

They bring gold with them when they come. It insures them a start in this broad free land.

In 1913, the 2000 Chinese who came to our shores brought some real money—$69,784. The Japanese—8000 of them—brought $290,635.

The money has been invested in leases, horses, farming tools and other little things to garden with. Some of the money is invested in washtubs, soap, wringers and flat-irons. Never a cent goes into stock at 10 cents on the dollar or into balloon ascensions.

Our demand for clean clothes is one of their assets. You can see them from the car windows—ironing, ironing, ironing, never stopping. They don't know what Sunday is, nor Decoration Day, nor the Fourth of July, so busy are these little brown work-bees. The hour to them is all eternity; they know no hours, days nor years. 'Tis toil, and toil, and toil.

Still, we have tried to club them from our land. We have tried to vote their working time down to eight hours. We have tried to keep them from our fields and have pointed the way to the cement walks where there is no soil to grow things. We have boycotted them at our doors while their fat horses refused the clover in our lawns. We think we are helping our white brothers when we refuse to buy from our yellow cousins. And they go away with their everlasting concrete smile, only to return on the morrow. They know Americans and they know that Americans are only notional after all. They know that our intent to-day becomes a dream tomorrow.

They know that so long as the sun shines prosperity is theirs. We can legislate against them, we can discriminate against them, but we cannot keep the sunshine nor the rain from touching their fields. Their great ancestors follow them to all corners of the earth, and they have sunshine and they have rain. They know that their great ancestors will not forsake them though we do, and count their money before we let them here.

Any August youth of the Great Chinese Empire can put his finger on a world map and the spot he touches is fertile and the sun shines, and the rain drips softly on growing things.

Show one Alaska, or Greenland, or South Victoria on the map, and though he cannot read, he will display his knowledge with a chill. They know every coast on the globe where the sea is still. They can tell from the surface of the sea itself and the rock dented shores, where the Red Abalone, the Green Abalone, and the Corrugated Abalone rest in the depths. They know the Free Pearl, the Blister Pearl, and the Culture Pearl. And they know how to get them. They proved that when they took them from our own coasts. They know other things. They know that their less fortunate brothers in the Orient wait for the dried meat of the Abalone.

Also, they know how to go to sea in ships—where hours and days are naught. Where they can labor with things of the sea with a snatch of sleep and no regular watch nor foundry whistle to beckon.

To launder clothes, to kill fish, to till the soil incessantly is industry; 'tis their work, and in the performing they waste no time. Every hour, every day—while it is light—must be used to produce for us what we neglect to produce for ourselves.

Is it profitable to us to work hardship on these thrifty, non-consuming workers? If we do, they might write their brothers not to come.

They might write thus:

"Our dewy paths in this august land of free spirits is strewn with the thorns of evil gods. The pale men have put from us our purpose, and our ancestors hearth not, and the wrath of the spirit of idleness is on us. The dregs of rice-wine has left our cups; the valleys are in sombre silence, and the eagles hold the mountain tops. Wing Wo Yow's and Lee Fung Chow's paths are westward o'er the singing sea from whence we came."

AT THE K. P. MEETING

Last Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Knights of Pythias, Hugh Powell Graves, Tropico's new attorney, with offices in the Martin-Burke building, was led through the mysteries of the second or rank of esquire of that order. To be properly conducted through the three ranks of a good pythian it requires three nights, and Mr. Graves has successfully passed the first two stages and awaits his final fate on next Monday night.

The hall was the scene of a large and interested gathering, and after the formalities of the initiation were over Mr. Graves responded to a call of speech in a manner that bespeaks his appreciation of work conferred and of the order of Knights of Pythias, in which he was soon to be a member.

Several nominations were offered for consideration of the officers to be filled at the yearly election in January.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON CLUB TO ENTERTAIN GRAMMAR SCHOOL CHILDREN

On the evening of Thursday, November 19th, the Thursday Afternoon Club will entertain the children of the grammar grades above the first and second at the Star Theater. Mr. Eudamiller, manager of the theater, has kindly donated this theater, service and films. Aside from the regular run of pictures there will be stereopticon views and a lecture by Mrs. Harriett Myers, of the Los Angeles Audubon club, on the protection of birds. This will be a great treat for the children, besides being very instructive, and every child should avail themselves of the opportunity.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the people in Tropico who so graciously lent their aid in my behalf during the recent election campaign. I promise to serve in the capacity as justice of peace to the best of my ability and will deal justice fairly to every man. In this work I ask the cooperation of every one.

(Signed) HARRY L. MILLER.

Whereas, Election returns indicate the election to Congress of Chas. H. Randall in the Ninth congressional district, and whereas said Chas. H. Randall is a member of this association; therefore, be it

THE WORD HELL.

A Little Book That Contains Some Startling Information.

A little book selling at only five cents, postpaid, is having a very wide circulation--running up into the millions. It contains some very startling information respecting the meaning of the word Hell. It claims to demonstrate, both from the Hebrew and the Greek of our Bible, that Hell is NOT a place of eternal torment, but merely another name for the TOMB, the GRAVE, the STATE OF DEATH. It affects to show that man was not redeemed from a far-off place of eternal torture, but quotes the Scriptures proving that he was REDEEMED from the GRAVE at the cost of his Redeemer's LIFE and that the Scriptural Hope, both for the Church and the World, is a resurrection hope based upon the death and resurrection of Jesus. The book is certainly worth the reading. The information it furnishes is certainly valuable, far beyond its trifling cost. Order it at once from the Bible and Tract Society, 17 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

WOMAN AND HOME.

The level of public entertainment is sinking, and the over-emphasis of sex in the magazines, fiction, plays and even the opera is lamentable. But the solution is in our own hands, and I for one have stopped going to theaters where such plays are produced, and I have discontinued my subscription to two magazines that have taken up the prevailing deplorable fashion of emphasizing the sex question in fiction. Keep these things out and you will go a long way toward changing "heaven is our home" to "our home is heaven." There is woman, for one, to make it so. For self sacrifice, devotion, loyalty, gentleness and subordination of self woman always was and always will be leagues ahead of us men. I recollect that when I was in China a mandarin said to me that the greatest thing that Christ had accomplished was the elevation of woman to her proper sphere.--Andrew Carnegie.

AGRICULTURAL LEGISLATION NEEDED

The Farm the Place to Study All Legislative Problems.

By Peter Radford.
Lecturer National Farmers' Union.

The principal function performed by government today is to collect taxes, keep records and prevent and punish crime; but that is not sufficient. Government should tip its hat to the Goddess of Opportunity as courageously as it draws a six-shooter on a train robber. We ought to encourage thrift as well as restrain greed. We have been basing legislation upon the extremes of human life--the classes high and low, the depraved and the talented--let us now reach the masses and the extremes will more nearly disappear. Our statutes are filled to overflowing with pity and revenge; let us add opportunity.

The slogan of the Farmers' Union is co-operation. Not only among individual farmers, but between all legitimate and useful occupations. We want to sit around the hearthstone of industry and talk over problems of mutual interest with our neighbors.

We want to invite those who are earnestly searching for information on public questions to get back to the soil with their investigations where, in the stillness of nature, they can climb the mountain-top of wisdom, explore the deep canyons of knowledge and stroll through the quiet valleys of understanding.

There is no problem in civilization that cannot be found in its native state on the farm. The labor, educational, financial, transportation, home-building and all other problems are there. We will discuss a few of them.

The Labor Problem.

We bow to the dignity of labor. No one would be willing to do more to lighten the burdens, increase the safety, comforts and profits of those who labor in commerce and industry than their fellow toilers in agriculture. But how about the farmer who bows his back to feed and clothe the world, and who works from sun until sun? Is he not also entitled to an increase in pay and a shortening of hours? Much has been said about the women in the factory and behind the counter, but how about the woman in the field, drenched in perspiration, gathering the harvest, the little children, their lips wet with mother's milk, tolling by her side? Are they not also entitled to consideration? Is not the man who digs in the ground entitled to the same consideration as he who toils at the forge, weaves at the loom and works behind the counter?

The farmer has been bearing his burdens as patiently as the beast he plows, but is patience a bar from justice? The labor problem of Virginia today is on the farm, and the first attention should be given those who labor in the field.

The Need of Cheap Money.

Agriculture has never been properly financed. The farmer pays a much higher rate of interest as a rule than any other class of borrower and his property, especially that of farm products, is not so readily accepted as a basis of credit as the property of other lines of industry of equal market value.

A rural or land credit system is needed that will enable a farmer to buy a home on long time at a cheap rate of interest.

A statute based on sound business principles that will enable the land less to buy and encourage the large land owner to sell, is much needed, and one that merits the most serious consideration of our law makers.

The financial problem of the state and nation is on the farm, and first attention should be given those who create the nation's wealth.

Novel Pastry.

Onion Pie.--Slice six onions and put them into a frying pan with butter enough to fry them. Add a cupful of milk and cream combined in equal quantities. Thicken with flour moistened with cold milk and add half a teaspoonful of salt and a saltspoonful of pepper. Bake a pie crust in a pie plate. Fill the crust with the onions and set in the oven until the top is brown. No upper crust is used.

Sweet Potato Pie.--Take one pound of mashed potatoes which have been rubbed through a colander, one-half a pound of butter creamed, two cups of white sugar, six eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately, one lemon squeezed into the potato while hot, one teaspoonful of nutmeg and one teaspoonful of mace. Mix and bake same as ordinary pie. This makes a nice dessert.

Mushroom Pie.--A delicious pie is made of cold sliced potatoes and mushrooms. Put them in alternate layers in a dish, season well with pepper and salt and cover with puff paste and then bake.

An Important Occasion

By JOHN TURNLEE

During the summer begira of Americans to Europe Miss Virginia King met on the steamer outward bound David Redwood. He dived with her through galleries in Dresden and Munich, climbed mountains in Switzerland and parted with her in Paris, he being obliged to return to his native land early in September.

The result of this sightseeing was an engagement, and it was agreed that Mr. Redwood on his return to America should seek the acquaintance of the young lady's father and make a formal application for her hand. She was of course to write her father of the acceptance of her suitor, and as she was prone to decide things for herself the only part Mr. King was to take in the matter was to go through the formalities.

On Mr. Redwood's arrival he wrote Mr. King a note, stating that he had met his wife and daughter abroad and with their kind permission would be happy to call on Mr. King if he would inform him what time and place would be agreeable. The young man was invited to dine with his prospective father-in-law on the following evening at his suburban residence at East Arlington, a dozen miles from the city.

On the train Redwood sat next a gentleman who, when the conductor came along, offered a commutation ticket to East Arlington.

"Pardon me," said Redwood. "I see you are from East Arlington. Can you inform me what direction I shall take to reach the residence of Edward King?"

"Edward King? Oh, yes! I can tell you where he lives. I go right by his house. I'll show you the way with pleasure."

The gentleman—Barbour was his name—proved quite genial, and before their journey was ended Redwood had told him that he had met the Kings in Europe, and since King had told Mr. Barbour of his daughter's engagement the latter was not long in divining the young man's errand.

"Is Mr. King an abem—a genial man, a man of the world?" asked Redwood.

"On the contrary, he is very strict.
Can't tolerate tobacco; never drinks any wines or liquors and is very attentive to formalities. But if you are going to see him on a matter of importance I would advise you to beware of him. He has a way of finding out about people by throwing them off their guard. They say that before employing a man in his business he will pretend to be a roisterer to him, and if there is anything wild about the fellow it will show itself."

"Thank you very much for the information," said Redwood, and turned the subject.

On the arrival of the train the gentleman showed Redwood to the King residence and went to his own home.
The visitor was admitted by a butler and told that Mr. King was dressing for dinner and would be down presently. Then the butler disappeared and returned in a few minutes with a cocktail and a box of cigarettes on a silver.

"Thank you; you needn't leave that," said Redwood, looking at the liquor and the cigarettes longingly. "I neither drink nor smoke."

But the butler left the refreshments on a table and departed without a word.

Mr. King came down and received his visitor cordially. Naturally knowing the object of the call, he was a trifle disconcerted.

"I see you have not drunk your cocktail," he said. "Do so, and I will join you in another. Oscar, bring two cocktails."

Redwood protested that he never drank wines or liquors—they didn't agree with him—and, as for smoking, he regarded it a filthy habit. Mr. King looked at him with an expression of disapprobation. When the butler brought more refreshments he drank his cocktail, apparently much disgruntled at being obliged to drink alone.

Then they went into dinner.

A bottle of champagne was on ice beside the host's chair, but Redwood declined to drink any of it. Of course Mr. King could not urge his guest to break through his accustomed habits.

During the dinner Redwood mustered the necessary courage to go through the formalities of asking Mr. King for his daughter, and the matter being over with the host regretted that his prospective son-in-law would not join him in a glass of wine to the health of their beloved Virginia. It was hard for the young man to resist the temptation, but fearing he was being tested and might lose the girl he loved if he yielded, he stood firm.

"Hello, Jim!" he exclaimed. "You're just in time to prevent my drinking alone. Give me a glass of wine, and with a twinkle in his eye, Mr. Barbour took up the glass that was filled for him and said:

"Tray excuse me, Mr. Redwood, for perpetrating a huge joke on you. The temptation was too strong for me.
My friend Ned King is a temperate man, but not such as I pictured him to be. I am glad to join you both on this very happy occasion."

And the three drank the health of the absent one with great gusto.

Co-operative thinking is the biggest

THE CHURCH AS A SOCIAL CENTER

A Broader Sphere for Religion—New Field for the Rural Church.

By Peter Radford.

Lecturer National Farmers' Union.

The social duty of the rural church is as much a part of its obligations as its spiritual side. In expressing its social interest, the modern rural church does not hesitate to claim that it is expressing a true religious instinct and the old-time idea that the social instincts should be starved while the spiritual nature was over-fed with solid theological food, is fast giving way to a broader interpretation of the functions of true religion.
We take our place in the succession of those who have sought to make the world a fit habitation for the children of man when we seek to study and understand the social duty of the rural church. The true Christian religion is essentially social—its tenets of faith being love and brotherhood and fellowship. While following after righteousness, the church must challenge and seek to reform that social order in which moral life is expressed. While cherishing ideals of service, the rural church which attains the fullest measure of success is that which enriches as many lives as it can touch, and in no way can the church come in close contact with its members as through the avenue of social functions.

The country town and the rural community need a social center. The church need offer no apology for its ambition to fill this need in the community, if an understanding of its mission brings this purpose into clear consciousness. The structure of a rural community is exceedingly complex; it contains many social groups, each of which has its own center, but there are many localities which have but one church and although such a church cannot command the interest of all the people, it is relieved from the embarrassment of religiously divided communities.

Social Needs Imperative.

The average country boy and girl have very little opportunity for real enjoyment, and have, as a rule, a vague conception of the meaning of pleasure and recreation. It is to fill this void in the lives of country youth that the rural church has risen to the necessity of providing entertainment as well as instruction to its membership among the young. The children and young people of the church should meet when religion is not even mentioned. It has been found safest for them to meet frequently under the direction and care of the church. To send them into the world with no social training exposes them to grave perils and to try to keep them out of the world with no social privileges is sheer folly. There is a social nature to both old and young, but the social requirements of the young are imperative. The church must provide directly or indirectly some modern equivalent for the busking bee, the quilting bee and the singing schools of the old days. In one way or another the social instincts of our young people must have opportunity for expression, which may take the form of clubs, parties, picnics or other forms of amusement.
One thing is certain, and that is that the church cannot take away the dance, the card party and the theater unless it can offer in its place a satisfying substitute in the form of more pleasing recreation.

Universal Instinct for Play.

In providing for enjoyment the church uses one of the greatest methods by which human society has developed. Association is never secure until it is pleasurable; in play the instinctive aversion of one person for another is overcome and the social mood is fostered. Play is the chief educational agency in rural communities and in the play-day of human childhood social sympathy and social habits are evolved. As individuals come together in social gatherings, their viewpoint is broadened, their ideals are lifted and finally they constitute a cultured and refined society.

It is plain, therefore, that the church which aims at a perfect society must use in a refined and exalted way the essential factors in social evolution and must avail itself of the universal instinct for play.
If the church surrounds itself with social functions which appeal to the young among its membership, it will fill a large part of the lamentable gap in rural pleasures and will reap the richest reward by promoting a higher and better type of manhood and womanhood.

Co-operative thinking is the biggest problem that confronts the farmer today.

No farmer can afford to buy a thing he can raise, no matter how cheap it is.

Co-operation is the force that keeps the wolf from the door.

Is your farm declaring dividends, or are you in the tenant class?

HUNTING A SPY

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

Shortly before the war broke out in the Balkans between the Turks and the allies I left Adrianople one evening about dark for Belgrade. There was one passenger in the compartment besides myself, and I noticed that while waiting for the train to start he was very ill at ease. When the guard shut and locked the door he seemed to breathe easier, but was still evidently impatient for the train to be off. When at last it began to roll out of the station he put his head out of the window eagerly.

Following the direction of his eyes I saw a man, whom I knew to be a Turk by his fez, running for the train. He ran like a deer, my fellow passenger watching him breathlessly. The latter occupied the window so that I could not see if the Turk caught the train, but presently my companion fell back gasping.

"Lost!" he moaned.
I had some knowledge of one or two of the many languages spoken in the Balkans, so that I understood the word. I also spoke some French and German and tried the man in both, getting an understanding in the latter tongue.

"What is your trouble?" I asked.
"Are you German?" he asked instead of replying.

"No; American."
"Oh, American. You then are a lover of liberty. Certainly you have no sympathy with Turks. I am doomed.
I have been in Adrianople spying on the fortifications. I was arrested, and drawings were found on me. I was sentenced to death. While waiting to be executed I caught my guard napping and escaped. I hoped to get away by this train, but this man, in whose charge I was placed, will go through the train when it stops and recover me."

Then, taking out a pencil and tearing a bit of paper from an old letter, he wrote his name and address on it and handed it to me.

"When you reach Sofia," he continued, "will you tell my wife what I have told you and what follows? Say that my last thoughts were of her and our dear children."

"If you are sure to be executed, why not take the chance of jumping from the train?"

"I am going to do that, but death is as sure as if I suffered myself to be taken back to Adrianople."

"You may strike soft ground."

By the time I had spoken the words he was out on the footboard. I put my head out through the window and saw his dim figure not far from it. It was very dark. Presently I ceased to see him and believed that he had jumped.

The first stop the train made was at Tchivmen, which we reached in about half an hour after the spy had disappeared. The guard unlocked the door, but would not let me alight till after the compartment had been examined by the man whom I had seen running for the train. As soon as he had passed I stepped down on to the platform and followed him to see if he got his quarry. He did not find him, and the train moved on.

I wondered what had become of the spy. He must have jumped or he would have been found on the train.
Nearly all the passengers were Turks, and I noticed the moment I alighted that there was a chain of men wearing fezzes surrounding the train, probably passengers who had volunteered to help the official in his efforts to arrest the spy.

Before we passed over the Turkish line to enter eastern Roumelia the train stopped for a long while, and I felt sure that it was for the purpose of making a final search for the spy.
In time we started on and in a few minutes were among a different nationality. "What a pity," I said to myself, "that the man could not have concealed himself on the train till we had passed the border! In that case he would have been safe."

The first stop we made in Roumelia was at Herma. There I alighted to stretch my legs, slowly walking toward the forward end of the train. I saw a man coming who I supposed was a coal shoveler on the engine, only he was blacker than any stoker I ever saw. What was my surprise when, rushing toward me, he threw his berimmed arms around me.

"Don't you know me?" he said. "I am the spy."

Then in the blackened features I recognized the man with whom I had sympathized.

"Is it you, and alive?" I asked.
"Yes it is, and very much alive."

"How did you do it?"

"I walked forward on the footboard till I reached the locomotive tender.
Climbing over the coal, I told the engineer, who was a Servian, my story.
He suggested that since the train would be searched I had better hide under the coal. So I lay down on the floor of the tender, and they covered me with the coal."

When we reached Sofia nothing would do but that I should go to the man's home with him. I did so, and so begrimed was he that his family did not at first recognize him. His wife knew the errand on which he had been to Adrianople and its danger. He was a week overdue, and she had given him up. Covered as he was with coal dust, she embraced him.

I was entertained royally at his house and left it with regret.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

BIBLE STUDY ON
ST. PETER SIFTED LIKE WHEAT.
Mark 14:27-31, 53, 54, 66-72—Nov. 15.

"Let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall."—1 Corinthians 10:12.

TODAY'S lesson deals with the special sifting which came to St. Peter at the time of our Lord's death, and of which he was forewarned by Jesus, saying, "Simon, behold Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat; but I have prayed for you, that your faith fail not." St. Peter's courage was his weak point. Notwithstanding all that Jesus had said to warn him, he realized no fear. Hence he did comparatively little watching and praying, and his very self-confidence led his undoing for a time.

His Hour Had Come.

Temptations come in an insidious form. We cannot imagine that at the time when St. Peter cut off the ear of the high priest's servant he had any sympathy with the thought of denying our Lord. But circumstances and conditions had changed. The Master was taken prisoner. Whatever power He had previously exercised whereby He walked away from His enemies, and they could not take Him because His "hour had not yet come," that power He evidently was not exercising now—His hour had come. To see His Master apparently without friends in Heaven,
delivered over to His enemies and led from one tribunal to the other,
had a paralyzing effect upon St. Peter. His courage oozed out.

St. John had such an acquaintance with some one connected with the palace that he was permitted to enter the court and bring St. Peter with him; but they had separated. St.
Peter was in the courtyard. It was cold, and he approached an open brazier to warm himself. In the light of the court, surrounded by the gossiping servants of the palace, he was keenly scrutinized by one of the maids, who said, "Thou art also a disciple of the Nazarene."

Stunned by the identification and wondering to what it might lead, St.
Peter promptly denied that he had any knowledge of Jesus. Then he moved away to another part of the court, where the shadows were deeper and the people fewer. But again he was recognized as a Galilean, and accused of being one of Jesus' disciples.
Again he denied. The third time he was approached with the same charge that he was one of Jesus' disciples and a Galilean, and that his speech betrayed him. Again, with cursing, he denied that he knew his Master.

The Master's Words Fulfilled.
Terrible! we say. And surely St.
Peter felt afterward that it was terrible; for just at that time, the early morning, came the beginning of cock-crowing, and he remembered the Master's words, that Satan had desired to sift him as wheat; and that before the cock crew, he would have denied his Master three times.

The whole matter came upon him with crushing force; and, wrapping his cloak about his head, he hastened away into the darkness, weeping bitterly; for just about the time that the cock crew, Jesus was led forth not far from him; and as he looked at Jesus, the Master lifted up his eyes and looked at St. Peter. It was a glance full of sympathy, not of anger; but it went straight to the heart of St.
Peter.

St. Peter's crime was nothing like that of Judas; he had merely sought to protect himself. He had not sought to injure or even to risk the injury of his Master. The thoroughness of St.
Peter's repentance is abundantly testified by his subsequent loyalty even unto death. Tradition has it that he was condemned to be crucified; that, remembering how once he had denied his Master, he felt that it would be too great an honor to share exactly the same death; and that at his own request he was crucified head downward.

The Lesson to All Christians.
Our Golden Text voices to all Christians the lesson of St. Peter's experiences—"Let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall." When we are weak in our own estimation and, full of faith, cling tenaciously to the Arm of the Lord, then we are really strong in the night which God supplies through His Son our Lord Jesus. Another lesson is that however different the experiences of God's people, all who fall into line for the great promotion to the First Resurrection must expect to endure severe siftings, testings, provings, of their love for the Lord, their love for the Truth, their love for the brethren, and of their loyalty to all these.

Let us never forget that these siftings are permitted, not because the Lord wishes us to be sifted out, nor because only those who can stand sift-
